mammoth suspension span. The film depicting the progress of last year's work at Grayling at a very opportune time as building construction for this season gets underway. With a view of what was accomplished this past season, it will be easy for movie viewers to imagine just what steps will be accomplished this year in pushing the span which will tie the two parts of Michigan together.

A.C.S. Volunteers Job Twofold

"Volunteers taking part in the American Cancer Society's 1955 educational and fund-raising crusade this month have two jobs to do," Mrs. E. R. Burns, ACS chairman for Crawford County, announced today.

"One job is collecting money," she explained, "but these volunteers also are helping to carry out on a house-to-house basis—the Society's year-round campaign of education about cancer control. With informative literature and with verbal answers to questions that keep coming up, they are driving home the importance of the future health of every person in Crawford County."

"Through such volunteers, people all over the country are learning the facts about cancer control. They are learning that in countless cases cancer is curable, and that thousands of men and women are alive who have been cured of it; that it must be treated early; that it does not cure itself, but must be treated properly by a trained doctor."

"Our contribution makes this educational and research program possible. Give generously."

Innoculation For First and Second Graders Set

Salk Polio Vaccine May Come To Crawford County Children

The Salk anti-polio vaccine was declared safe and effective Tuesday. Its effectiveness was declared to be "between 80 and 90 percent." It was licensed Tuesday afternoon and inoculation programs will proceed. It was believed that the vaccine would be available through the family doctor for general use in the very near future.

Grayling, April 8, 1955. — The grand finale to the years of research and millions of dimes expended in the search for a preventive for polio myelitis is optimistically anticipated this week on April 12th. On that historical day it is expected that Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., will have announced the results of his studies at Ann Arbor of the Salk Vaccine Field Trials conducted with Maroon of Dimes funds in 1954. Should his report be favorable, as everyone has hoped it would, the Salk Polio vaccine will be immediately licensed for use by the National Institutes of Health and inoculation programs will swing into effect.

Sufficient quantities of the vaccine have been purchased by the March of Dimes for all first and second graders in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii. Crawford County planning under the supervision of Mrs. Johanne Gorman, County Health Nurse, and District

The local Ground Observer Corps acts with the U. S. Air Force and the Anti-Aircraft Command to make up this country's air defense. Sgt. Baker said. Men, women, boys and girls are now wearing the Observer Corps uniform. They are proud to be serving their country, he added. 300,000 more volunteers are needed with some right here in Grayling, Sgt. Baker continued. The only qualifications are good eyes and ears and U. S. citizenship. The training will be in the fascinating world of aircraft identification, he concluded.

Push Michigan Week Plans

An appeal to all organizations in Crawford County to cooperate vigorously with Willard Cornell, county Michigan Week chairman, in making the May 15 - 21 observance a big success here is made by Dr. Grover C. Dillman, state chairman.

"Whether we make real progress this year toward the objective of Michigan Week will depend, more than anything else, on the cooperation the county committee gets during the next week of preparation from the organizations that represent communities and groups of all kinds throughout the county," Dr. Dillman writes.

The objective, he points out, is to make every individual in Michigan really acquainted with his state and county and proud that he is a citizen of both.

The state committee has prepared numerous suggestion sheets covering different activities of Michigan Week but Dr. Dillman expects to observe Michigan Week in whatever way its leaders feel will go farthest toward this objective.

New Gymnasium To Be Scene Of Larger And Better Display

Many Prizes, Gifts And Novelties

The Second Annual Grayling Trade Show, sponsored by the Grayling Women's Club will open in the new Grayling High School gymnasium at 1 p. m. Friday afternoon.

The show this year will run both Friday and Saturday while last year's first presentation was a Saturday show only. The new gym offering more space will none the less be jammed as 53 booths have been arranged.

Of course, just about all of the Grayling merchants will have a booth with plenty of free treats, favors and in some cases valuable prizes. Others not having booths, are displaying advertising banners and offering door prizes. In addition to these, there will be a large number of other valuable door prizes.

Among the novel ideas this year is a plan whereby forty people will win the chance to talk three minutes free on the long distance phone lines to any place in Michigan. All one needs to do is to register at the Union Telephone booth and if you are the lucky winner, you'll get your free phone call which is being sponsored by Spike's Keg O'Nails.

Other novel booths include a Grayling Winter Sports booth which will display what is being planned in the way of improvement for next season and memberships for the coming season will be on sale. It is a splendid opportunity to get behind this winter tourist attraction which aids the whole community. There will be a Conservation booth displaying pelts of all Michigan fur bearing animals. Conservation is one of the main projects of the Michigan Club women. The Boy Scout booth will display many items of handicraft on which the boys have been working.

Among the many fine items of entertainment lined up by the ladies are: a puppet show which will be better than last year and which will offer four complete showings; Les Leech will be playing his Hammond organ off and on all during the show; the King's Men glee club will offer a fine program as will the Nash Kelvinator glee club; a 17 piece orchestra will also add its fine music to the entertainment; a Grayling Kid's tap dance revue is another item of entertainment which will give those at the show a real thrill. Sgt. Cokendall of the Michigan State Police will be on hand to present a shooting exhibition which will include some amazing and fancy gun use.

"As you wander from booth to booth and see the wonderful displays of merchandise, you will be convinced that the Grayling merchants are on their toes and are striving to make Grayling one of the best shopping cities in northern Michigan," one of the Women's Club committee members said.

Among the many door prizes which will be offered are gasoline, oil changes, paint, clocks, groceries, out-of-doors grills, sheets, plaques, carving sets and many other wonderful items which it is understood will include a few really big prizes.

The Coffee Shop will be in operation again this year so that attending may take care of that "hunger pang" right at the show.

Regular track season opens on Tuesday, April 19 when Grayling enters a strong Grayling Blue Devil squad that is almost intact from last year. The Grayling team is expected to be among the best in the conference as is a Viking and a real cinder and field battle is predicted for next Tuesday afternoon.

LOCAL SAILOR BACK FROM 7,000 MILE TRIP

Ralph L. Hunter, engineer, third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis O. Hunter, and husband of the former Miss Lucille M. Kailing, all of 404 Huron Ave., Grayling, Mich., is scheduled to arrive in Boston in mid-April aboard the icebreaker USS Atka which has completed an exploration of some 7,000 miles of South Polar coast.

The Atka spent nearly two months in the antarctic collecting scientific data and searching for suitable bases for future expedi-tions.

She left Boston last December 1 and arrived, via the Panama Canal, in Wellington, New Zea-land, on January 1st. Follow-ing a week's final preparation in the New Zealand capital, the ice-breaker steamed into Antarctic waters.

First objective was little Amer-ica in the Ross Sea, site of four previous U. S. expeditions. But ice movements of tremendous force had wiped out the traditional Bay of Whales landing area at Little America and destroyed three fourths of the 1941 camp site.

The ship, unable to moor be-cause of ice walls from 80 to 150 feet high, relied on her helicopters to airlift personnel to Little Amer-ica camps to investigate snow con-ditions and to salvage equipment. With Little America ruled out as an immediate possibility for forthcoming South Polar interna-tional-geophysical year research projects, the Atka steamed east in search of other sites. Kainan Bay, 40 miles to the northeast was dis-covered to be a nearly ideal all-around site.

In search of continental land areas in the Sulzberger Bay and the Amundsen Sea areas, the ice-breaker battled hundreds of miles of floating coastal ice pack. Finding no suitable openings in the pack, and with time running out, she turned back for the Atka, del Sea in Atlantic Antares. Near the Prime Meridian on the Atlantic coast, the expedition discovered "Atka" and "Admiral Richard E. Byrd" Bays. The lat-ter was felt to be a particularly good base for future explorations into the Antarctic interior.

In her travels, the Atka crossed the Equator, the International Date Line, the Antarctic Circle, and rounded Cape Horn. Living expedition members four salty distinctions in nautical circles.

She steamed to within six miles of Framheim, in the Ross Sea, about 680 miles north of the South Pole. Framheim is the southern-most point ever navigated by a ship; Amundsen having brought the Fram to this point in 1912.

Enroute home, the Atka spent eight days in Buenos Aires, Ar-gentina, where depleted food stocks and other supplies were re-plenished. From there to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where the crew and civilian observers spent a three-day holiday. The icebreaker left Rio March 23 bound for her home port, Boston.

Skipper of the Atka and leader of the expedition is Navy Lieut. Glen Jacobson of Seattle, Wash.

State Higher Education Picture Getting A Real Going Over

Mass production education is getting a lot of attention from those shocked at statistics. College presidents tell the legislature that the 100,000 students on over-crowded Michigan campuses will grow to 200,000 by 1970. They present figures showing that $150,000,000 will be needed to enlarge the four-year colleges to handle the flood.

Crawford County Avalanche
Thursday, April 14, 1955

THAT'S THE POINT WHERE SENATOR DON VANDERWERP (R. Fremont) stepped in.

We simply must not build vast empires at Michigan State College and the University of Michigan," he said.

VanderWerp, a former weekly newspaper publisher who never lost his ability for a direct, well-considered attack at the heart of a problem; figures that if education is to become big business, then big businessmen should be consulted.

He takes a dark view of educators building campuses when their training is for building character in scholars and courses in curriculum.

So, VanderWerp is pushing his proposal to organize a committee of business and industrial executives to tell the state how to build a state-wide educational plan.

First, he wants Michigan State and the University to concentrate on the last two years of work and offer advance courses, leaving the first two years mainly to others.

His tentative plan calls for state aid to community and junior colleges in all parts of the state, financial assistance to church-connected colleges according to the number of students taught.

"I can see no danger to the theory that the church and state should be separated," he said.

Preliminary findings indicate to VanderWerp that the state could save up to the bigger schools, mated $150,000,000 the college presidents seek if his plan is carried out.

State aid would go only to those community and church-connected colleges offering courses directing a student toward the larger schools and advanced work.

From a personal standpoint, he figures that it will be easier for a student to get out of high school to get his first two years of college nearer home.

Some do not have the ready money, he said, to embark on a costlier try at the bigger schools. They could budget their cash—a sum for the first two years, but the bulk to be spent on advanced work—when and if they go on.

"These four-year colleges don't specialize any way in the first two years," he said.

VanderWerp told of enrolling at the University of Michigan and telling his advisor that he wanted to specialize in economics.

"He told me rather curtly that I had two years of college work to complete before I could specialize," VanderWerp said. "I could just as well have taken that two years nearer home and at less expense."

VanderWerp feels deeply about the problem. He is chairman of the Senate committee on education.

He feels that students from small communities could get "lost" on the big campuses where there are thousands of others before getting their start in college work on a local level.

VanderWerp said he would not advocate expanding the number of community and junior colleges—just build them up with state aid to the point where they could handle the first two years.

Going a step further Senator Carlton H. Morris (R. Kalamazoo) is interested in expanding the teacher's colleges to take the strain off the two major institutions at Ann Arbor and East Lansing.

Joining with VanderWerp, he suggests making community colleges regional—enabling nearby counties to send their students for the first two years to a campus nearer home.

Whether VanderWerp's ideas will be adopted despite heavy pressure to immediately start building at Ann Arbor and East Lansing is still in doubt.

However, he and others have sponsored a proposal to organize a committee of business and industrial executives to get started on plans for "decentralized education" in Michigan.

Top educators will be enlisted as "advisors" to the committee, VanderWerp said, adding:

"Educators are specialists with one-track minds. They're like doctors and lawyers. We wouldn't hire builders to teach agriculture or a doctor to try a case in court."

"By the same token, we should be smart enough to get businessmen and builders to plan construction projects. We can save money and get a better product."

And Away We Go . . . . .

With the opening of the office building by the newly organized Crawford County Chamber of Commerce, hopes for the future of Crawford County and Grayling would seem to be much rosier than in the past.

There is absolutely no question in anyone's mind that this is a vital, wide-awake Chamber of Commerce in operation. We think that the present make-up of officers and Board of Directors would place our Chamber in this category.

The County and Grayling, although still our choice home can stand many improvements. As we have noted on several occasions during the past few months, we sincerely believe that the best years are just ahead of this part of the State of Michigan and Grayling and Crawford County in particular.

The men heading your Chamber of Commerce need your support both as a member of this group who have organized to help you, as well as your ideas and moral backing.

Many may feel that the Chamber is embarking on an ambitious program. And that is so. But they tell us how any group can accomplish anything less it sets its sights high. The success or failure of the new Crawford County Chamber of Commerce squarely on your shoulders. Yes, it is up to you either we go ahead to bigger and better things. . . . . or we stay as we are.—B. W. S.

The Small Town Editors See It

The American Press, a magazine for home town newspapers, has completed what it terms "the most thorough survey ever made" of the attitude of country and suburban newspaper editors on subjects facing Congress. A total of 1,050 of these editors answered questions on major legislative issues asked by the magazine. The purpose, it says, is "to help make the voice of rural America more articulate in Washington."

In its March issue, The American Press prints the results of its survey. A brief partial summary follows. The figures do not add up to 100 per cent, for the season that "No answer" percentages, and answers reflecting the views of only very small numbers of editors, are not included here.

Corporation Taxes: 70.4 per cent favor the President's request that reductions be postponed, while 24.9 per cent are against postponement.

Excise Taxes: These taxes fall on liquor, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles, and in every case the editors favor their continuance, by varying but always substantial margins.

Trade Agreements: 74.7 per cent are for the extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, with additional authority to the President to lower tariffs 5 per cent a year, while 16.8 per cent are against extension, 2.3 per cent are for continuance without lowering, and 3.9 per cent are undecided.

Foreign Aid: This is a close one, with 42.2 per cent favoring continuance, 38.1 per cent discontinuance, and 11 per cent limitation or reduction.

Farm Program: The Administration is strongly supported, with 67.7 per cent of the editors approving flexible supports as against 18.4 per cent for rigid 90 per cent supports, and 7.8 per cent for no supports at all.

Health Reinsurance: The Nays have it here—51.1 per cent to 39.9 per cent, with 5.9 per cent undecided.

Public Housing: The President wants Congressional authorization to build 35,000 more public housing units in each of the next two fiscal years—54.6 per cent of the editors approve that program, with 39.1 per cent against it and 2.9 per cent undecided.

Taft-Hartley: The question here concerns the unions' attempt to have the Taft-Hartley law changed in order to take away from states the power to pass right-to-work laws. Editorial sentiment is overwhelming—a mere 10.6 per cent for the change, and 86.1 per cent against it.

Minimum Wage: The majority, 63.5 per cent, approve the President's proposal to increase it to 90 cents an hour, while 37.9 per cent favor keeping it at the present level of 75 cents. Only 4.1 per cent approve the proposal, made by some labor leaders, to raise it to $1.25.

Stock Market Investigation: Asked if such an investigation was needed, 39.2 per cent said Yes, an even 50 per cent No, with 7.7 per cent undecided.

Fair Trade Laws: These laws, under which manufacturers can set retail prices of their products, are exceedingly unpopular with the editors responding. Only 17.3 per cent approved them, with 76.3 per cent disapproving, and 3.9 per cent undecided.

IN GRAYLING 23 YEARS AGO

Interesting "Items" of News Gathered From the Files of the "Avalanche" of 23 Years Ago

April 14, 1932

"A certain state highway engineer named Rashed, rushed into the Avalanche office to protest against an article appearing in the latest issue of the Grayling Herald-Times claiming that the highest point in Michigan has been discovered by Surveyor G. F. DeLaMater to be in Otsego county—altitude, 1,460 feet, thus disputing a claim that the highest elevation was near Cadillac. The engineer says that they are all wrong and claims that, according to an official U. S. G. S. there is an elevation six miles south and one mile east of Grayling that has a record of 1,489 feet; 29 feet higher than that in Otsego county. But we are never alarmed over elevation claims made at Grayling. We have on other occasions published statements of elevations in Crawford county that are even higher than that mentioned by the engineer. About six miles southwest of Grayling there are elevations that reach heights ranging from 1,490 to 1,497 feet. These records were ascertained by War Department U. S. engineers. An official war department map showing these facts is on file in the Avalanche office, and may be seen at any time. The Otsego county engineer will have to do a whole lot better than 1,460 feet before he can begin to dent the altitude record held in Crawford county. We still have 37 feet the best of that argument.

Filling a long want Grayling Mercy Hospital has purchased a new ambulance. It arrived this week and yesterday was toured up and down the streets so that the public might view it. The machine is very light grey in color and trimmed with a pretty shade of blue. A shrill whistle lets you know when it is coming.

Monday night marked the closing of a very successful club year of the Woman's Club, although in reality the various committees kept right on with their activities throughout the summer months. Mrs. Roy Milnes was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. L. Herison. Mrs. Gordon Moffat was elected second vice-president. This spring and summer the club women hope to do much toward beautifying the park. A year and a half ago they planted eleven trees. The nice apartment house which is occupied by purple martins this summer was given by the club.

Ted Callahan is employed on the M. C. R. R. at Bay City. Emerson Brown returned to Ann Arbor Monday where he is employed by the Holland Furnace Co., after spending a few days here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brown.

A large crowd attended the party that was held at the Board of Trade rooms Friday evening for the benefit of the Winter Sports association. The Ramlers furnished the music and everyone had an enjoyable evening.

Work was begun Tuesday morning. Last fall part of the work was done and when the weather became bad it was discontinued until spring.

Want to feel like a pilot feels?

Today's the day to "Join The Test Pilot Club" and see what a thrill you get when you try Variable Pitch Dynaflo™

We're not kidding. When you try a '55 Buick with Variable Pitch Dynaflo, you'll feel like a pilot does when he heads his plane down a runway for take-off. For you, in the driver's seat, are doing what that pilot does—you're changing the pitch of your propellers—one way for instant response on getaway—another way for better gas mileage in cruising. Your propellers are whirling in oil, deep inside the Dynaflo unit. When you press the pedal in the normal way, you hold those propellers in their economy angle—and you enjoy plenty more miles from your gasoline. But when you want instant acceleration—for quick getaway, or for a sudden safety-surge of emergency power—you just press the pedal way down, and—with absolute smoothness—you get the action you want, and split-second quick. It's the thrill that's the talk of the industry—performance unlike anything you have ever known before on the ground. And so many folks have been asking to try it that we Buick dealers across America have set up April as "Test Pilot Club" Month. All it takes to join the "Club" is a test drive at the wheel of a new Buick. That's all. So we cordially invite you to win your "wings"—to try the spectacular performance of Variable Pitch Dynaflo—and to feel the mighty V8 power that puts the whip to these gorgeous new Buick beauties. Drop in this week.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Buicks.
